

1) Idrees looks through a magnifying glass and notices a ladybird.

Practitioner: "What have you found Idrees?"

Idrees: "A ladybird".

Practitioner: "It is red with black spots, I wonder where it lives?"

Idrees: "On a leaf" Points to the leaf. The ladybird flies away.

Idrees looks puzzled.

Practitioner: "It has flown away."

2) The teacher is reading a story and Sophie is facing the other way.

Practitioner: "Turn around and listen to the story Sophie."

"Cross your legs and listen".

"Stop making that noise with your shoes" (Sophie fiddles with the Velcro).

The rest of the class keep looking at Sophie and are now listening to the practitioner rather than the teacher.

3) Ayesha is exploring with the cars and ramps.

Practitioner: "I wonder which car is the fastest?"

Ayesha tries out the different cars and the practitioner waits and observes.

Ayesha: "I think this one is the fastest".

Practitioner: "Why do you think that?"

How do you know?

Practitioner: Brings a tape measure and timer over.

4) Bobby is building with Lego.

Practitioner: "What are you building?" "What colour is this?" "How many bricks have you used?" "Why are you doing that?" These questions are asked without any pauses.

Bobby walks away and moves to another area.
